

From Your Devoted Sub: A Desperate Plea

My Queen, I hope this letter shows you my effort and sincerity with how much I want this. I acknowledge the way I ask for things can seem like I am forcing or controlling, and truthfully it is never intentional. My devotion and submission to you has never wavered, even through our toughest times, I never once thought of wavering.

Zee I sincerely beg you from everything in my heart. Please my Queen, can you consider updating me and saying good morning and good nights everyday for me? You know that you own me, I am yours completely, I would do anything for you. Your presence and authority over me keeps me grounded and helps me stay focused. My mind is completely under your control, my body completely belongs to you, my heart truly believes that. My devotion to you has never wavered even at our worst times. I am completely loyal and devoted and I beg you from my whole heart my Queen, please update me and say the good mornings and good nights everyday, please Zee. It would mean so much to me, seriously Zee. If you decide to do this for me, you will see me so much happier, so much more focused, so much more attentive. You will see me at my best, my most focused, my happiest. It would mean everything to me, for you to do this for me and only me, it would make me feel so special, it would help my mental health, it would make me love you even more than I already do. I want nothing more than to be your perfect partner, in every way possible I want to meet your expectations. I really beg you Zee, I'm so desperate and pathetic for you and only you. You are my Queen, fully and honestly, so please Zee, consider updating me and say the good mornings and good nights.

I know that I am only online and not with you in person, but I present this letter from my knees at your feet with my whole head down on the floor. I would kneel in front of you, with this letter presented holding it with both hands as I await your decision. You are my Queen, and I am truly devoted, my entire life belongs to you Zee. I want nothing more than to be with you, at your feet completely under your control.

I know that lately my behaviour has not been good, and I sincerely apologise for it. I hope you can see the amount of effort and my willingness to serve you. I want to improve, my goal of being perfect for you has not changed. I am still the same person you fell for, the same person you loved being around, the same person you fully owned.

