

My Perfect and Beautiful Queen

By: Zee's Pet

To: My Owner

Appreciation is an art to me. The quiet art of listening, understanding, and deep reflection over the criteria of love. Appreciation does not live in the grand gestures of love but in the small and consistent ways it flourishes within the fabric of a relationship. Appreciation and love are inseparable for me. Because without one, the other can not survive. With this letter to my beautiful and perfect Owner, I aim to lay out all the ways I cherish and appreciate You from the bottom of my heart. All the ways I appreciate everything you do for me, and to confess the deep love that holds me together with your permission.

Firstly, I want to preface by acknowledging your beautiful and perfect authority over me, the respect I have for you, and the love and privilege of belonging to you in the truest and most sincere sense.

My Queen, I am so very grateful for the ways you show me kindness even when I fall short in front of you in so many ways. You have a beautiful way of breaking me open and taking all my pieces and rebuilding me stronger in your own perfect vision. My duty to you is to obey, love, care for, and fulfill every need and desire you may have and to trust you with my entire life. I am so very grateful for your kindness and the way you rebuild me, the way you put time and effort into making me a better and more obedient partner, which I appreciate so much about you, my beautiful love.

My Owner, I am grateful for your patience with my imperfect self and embracing my flaws, which I aim to improve for you every day. You stay with me and exercise your loving patience even when I break down and show you just how imperfect I am. I am truly so grateful for the patience and love you show me every day. You see me in my truest sense, accept me as I am, and still choose to mold me into your perfect partner worthy of your collar. I dreamed about being owned by you, and finally when I was, I broke under your authority. I still have much to work on, and I understand that. Your patience is truly a quiet form of love, which I treasure and appreciate every day.

My Love, I am grateful for your constant presence and unwavering support of me. Under your gentle yet firm leadership, I find my serenity. When I break down and cry over all my flaws and my need for your attention, you are there to reassure and love me. In your arms, I am never a burden. Instead, I am constantly and consistently met with your patience, understanding, and your guidance throughout it all.

From the deepest depths in my heart, I thank you and appreciate you for choosing me and loving, caring, and being patient with me despite all my flaws. Under your authority, I feel my safest and most vulnerable to my truest sense. Your support during my most vulnerable moments reminds me of why I surrendered to your authority. I am endlessly thankful for all you do for me, the way you are enough for me, to kneel and serve in front of your authority, and to treasure you from the purest place in my heart. My Queen, I want to end by saying that from the depths of my submission, I need you to hear me clearly, that you are enough for me. You are more than enough for me; you're appreciated and loved, and I find joy and happiness in serving and obeying you. I look forward to and encourage your control over me, my body, and my mind. I give myself completely and surrender any ego I may have. I am yours, completely and utterly. I love you.
